Are You Making Good Use of Your Time at Home?

It seems like forever at times and the days of the week start to blend into one another! I learned one really important lesson these past few days about practicing patience starting at home. I can be a bit grumpy when it comes to cutting into my work time and so I found that I needed to be aware of how I was reacting to interruptions. It started with a free webinar series put on by Colin Sprake (here is the link if you want to join in) all centered on mindset, no matter what business or personal situation you are in. Changing my reaction has totally changed the atmosphere in my household. BTW he has been putting on these free webinars for 4 weeks and is adding a 5th week coming up. He does not do any selling on these like most webinars.

This Week's Blog Article - How to Make A Planner Pouch/Divider

Every quarter I like to add a new section to my Happy Planner but with the stay-at-home order, a trip to the stationery store or craft store is totally out of the question! That is when I decided to design one of my own and share the template and tutorial with you so that you can make one of your own as well.

BTW - if you missed any of these newsletters, the archives are in the resource library - at the end of the list of files.

My Color Palette For This Week

This is a shot from my garden! The colors are so amazing and the sunlight really makes a splash of color in a world of new shoots and budding tulips. I do hope you can use this palette in your crafting or artwork.

This Week's Freebie! Create Your Own Puzzle

Take a photo and blow it up, print it, then glue and Mod Podge it to some basswood. Then use your Blade on your Maker to cut out the pieces of the puzzle. No Cricut? You can still print out the puzzle template and cut out the pieces of your puzzle by overlaying the template. I hope you have fun with this one!

Get the face templates from my resource library!

Remember the password to the library is love - this password will change in April, so watch the upcoming newsletters for the change.

While we are at home, Craftstash has so many downloadables at sale prices.
