

Mother's Day is over and we are getting ready with some makes for Father's Day. Today's freebie is centered around some great greetings for those special Dads in our lives. The direct downloadable is at the bottom of this newsletter.

Thinking About The Long-Weekend!

This has been a challenging year for travel and vacations as we head into the middle and end of May. Often there are big celebrations around Memorial Day but this year all the plans have changed. Those celebrations will be done a little differently. For those in Canada the Victoria Day weekend starts today. We are all in a situation where travel is not possible and we are doing distancing parties! I sure hope that when we hit summer we will be able to socialize a bit more even though it will be different. I do miss dinner parties with friends and family.

How will you celebrate your long weekend?

Be Safe and Healthy!

This Week's Blog Article - Pencil Case

This nice easy project is one the whole family can make. I have made several and use mine in my craft room. I have one full of quilled scraps I can use for later projects and another one holds my Sakura gel pens. I like the paper pencil cases not only because of the size but as an added small box I can quickly make and use right away. The heavier the card stock you use, the less it will break down over time. For me, and hopefully you as well, I can never have enough small boxes to put my "bits and bobs".

BTW - if you missed any of these newsletters, the archives are in the resource library - at the end of the list of files.

My Color Palette For This Week - Crushing It with Blue

Week 19. Blue is the color of the year, especially classic blue and all the complimentary colors that go with it. I chose this photo because of the blues embedded inside.

Video of the Week - How to Make A Cube Card

Card making is fun, especially when you can vary the way you make them. This cube card was featured in a UK magazine and many of the directions were missing from the article. I redesigned this card so you can make it easily. Give this one a try!
