Celebrating the Fall Season!

There is something about the autumn that I love (but I must admit that Summer is by far my favorite season). It is the crisp clean air (now that most of the smoke has cleared), and the nice walks through the park to get a really great start to the day that really have me in a happy place.

With doing so much crafting all the time and figuring out what incredible designs I can make, I am sitting way too long in my chair. As a matter of fact, my rear end gets really sore for the long periods of sitting. Can you relate? So to shake things up a bit, I am adding walking breaks this season as long as the rain does not start in too early.

This is the perfect time of year to get all the holiday crafts planned so that everything will be ready in time. My first priority is to think about making my cards to send out, then perhaps some iron-on projects such as t-shirts. Last year I made some personalized pillows and wooden storage boxes with canvas lids and name tags. Not sure yet what it will be this year. Are you preparing you list yet?

What is on your holiday wish list?

Are you only making of list of what you want to make for your family and friends? I know this is usually what we all do but it is time to add some items on your own wish list. I know I certainly have lots of crafting items on my list - forget the kitchen appliances, I want something so I can make even more! It seems like there is always something new to try.

Speaking of trying new things - do you have crafting supplies and other items that you tried and found you never really used them but once? It would be interesting to list what you have hidden away and either not used or will maybe use it again one day.

This month I am working on getting more subscribers and watch time for my YouTube channel. I am posting shorter videos on specific how to do things rather than long projects. I am saving those project videos for special makes. Please subscribe if you have not already done so.
